COAL INDUSTRY CODE FINISHED

Fourth Dividend To Bring Total Paid to 56 Per Cent.

Distribution of $65,000 in an eighth per cent dividend to 2,400 depositors of the Marion National bank will be started Saturday, it was announced today by C. A. Jones, receiver.

This makes 56 per cent paid general creditors in four dividends since the bank closed Dec. 15, 1931. Payment of this dividend was made possible largely through a reconstruction finance corporation loan, the fourth obtained by the receiver, Mr. Jones, in Washington a few days ago, was informed he was the only receiver in the nation who had obtained four loans from the corporation in the liquidation of a bank, and that only one or two receivers had obtained as many as three loans.

Depositors may obtain dividends due them by presenting receivers' certificates at the bank on or after Saturday.

The first dividend, amounting to 25 per cent, was paid by the receiver on June 30, 1932, six months after the bank had been closed, with the aid of a reconstruction finance corporation loan. This loan was repaid and a second one obtained to make possible a second dividend of 15 per cent paid Aug. 12, 1932. The third dividend of eight per cent was paid, with the help of a third loan, just before Christmas.

Soft coal operators and United Mine Workers of America signed labor contract.

William Green, president of American Federation of Labor, said employers not keeping pace with labor in supporting NRA.

Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, attributed upturn in wages and decrease in working hours to adoption of codes.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—A single labor contract involving the wages of thousands of miners today needed only President Roosevelt's approval to become an effective instrument of soft coal's NRA code.

Described by its signers as "the greatest in magnitude and importance that has ever been negotiated in the history of collective bargaining," the agreement handed Hugh S. Johnson last night, set tonnage rates needed to carry out the "basic minimum" daily wage scales fixed in the code. Swift presidential approval was expected.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Northern Coal Control association, and E. C. Mahan, president of the Smokeless Appalachian Coal association—the two embracing 70 per cent of the bituminous coal tonnage—signed for the operators. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was the third signer.

"It sponsors belief in the task of beginning of a new era in the economic progress of this basic industry," the three said in a joint statement. "The sponsors in submitting it for approval commend it not only to the President but to the people of the United States."

Johnson has ordered the drafting by Thomas S. Hammond—director of the emergency re-employment campaign—on a permanent set-up involving the shifting of personnel and also the merging of as many industries as practically under the least possible number of master codes.

In the reorganization work a new policy board was created under Hammond's chairmanship and was expected to provide the nucleus for the permanent organization. While the recovery act ends on June 16, 1935, Johnson believes congress will extend the best features of the NRA program.

SLAIN WITHOUT WARNING

Desperadoes Turn Loose Mail of Machine Gun Fire To Evade Capture.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 22—Behind a smoke screen laid in Chicago's loop today five gunmen staged a daring holdup of four federal reserve bank employees and five minutes later shot and killed a policeman after their automobile collided with another.

The robbery, carefully planned and swiftly executed, probably will not meet much in the way of loot, an official of the federal reserve bank said. W. C. Bachman, cashier and assistant deputy governor of the bank, said he believed the two bags contained nothing but cashed checks from member banks.

The policeman, killed as he and a fellow officer approached the desperadoes' car about a mile from the scene of the robbery not knowing of the holdup, was Miles Cunningham, 35.

Felled by Machine Gun

A moment before the machine had overturned after striking another, and as Cunningham and Policeman Morris Fitzgerald stepped into the street, the men crawled from the wreckage and sent a barrage of machine gun bullets toward the officers. Cunningham fell mortally wounded while Fitzgerald jumped behind a metal sign and returned the fire for a moment.

As told by the two federal reserve bank messengers, Victor Pionkowski and Otto Wizar and their guards, Proctor Hale and John McGillan, they were on their way from the postoffice to the federal reserve bank when the gunmen appeared.

Smoke Screen Used

The messengers were pushing a hand truck on which were the mail bags along Jackson boulevard, a main thoroughfare leading to the west side, when the gunmen's car passed them between Clark and LaSalle street.

A moment later the car drew to a halt at the curb and with heavy smoke pouring from the exhaust five men, three of them carrying machine guns, suddenly appeared. Pointing the guns at the guards they quickly disarmed them and lined all up against the walls of the adjacent Continental Trust company.

Assembly Votes To Quit After Bitter Session

Work Half Completed; Speaker Charged With Steam Roller Tactics in Adjournment.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—In one of the wildest and most wild sessions in the annals of the Ohio legislature, Speaker Frank Cave last night virtually ordered the adjournment of the house of representatives.

Another meeting was called for this afternoon with the prospects that many aroused members would be on hand to protest the "iron hand" tactics of the speaker pro tem.

Meanwhile, rain was ruffed in the senate when found it necessary to bring three of its members to Columbus from Cincinnati by airplane in order to get sufficient votes to adopt an adjournment resolution.

Protests also were made there against the manner in which the adjournment resolution was adopted, and Senator Will P. Haynes, Democrat of Columbus county, said he would resign in protest if no action was completed, on the school program.

Charges of unbecoming conduct by utilities and the American Book Co. of school legislation were leveled in both the house and the senate during the heated debate in the afternoon and long night sessions.

The future in the house broke out early in the afternoon when Cave overrode protests of members against reconsidering the weak school administrative bill.

The beligerent attitude of the membership continued as those who sought to vote on the Haynes bill to tax utilities for the support of week schools, and a majority floor leader Keith Lawrence of Quincy, who presided over the house during part of the afternoon session.

So aroused were members of the house over the asserted "steam roller" tactics of the leaders that waste baskets and bill books were hurled in the general direction of the speaker's rostrum and a near fist fight ensued.

The climax came when a resolution calling for sine die adjournment was allegedly "steam rolled" through despite the protests from more than a score of members who

Eighty-four country poultry dealers who buy direct from farmers, representing nearly 20 counties last night moved forward in their plans for a statewide organization by naming their group the Ohio Poultry & Egg Buyers' association.

Bylaws embodying rules of fair competition were adopted, and plans for enlarging the organization were discussed.

Action on a proposal to establish uniform prices to be paid by country dealers for poultry and eggs was withheld pending government action on the national poultrymen's code.

C. W. Sowers of Lexington, president, and George Underwood of Marion, secretary, said an effort will be made to obtain an NRA official as speaker for a meeting next week.

F.D.R. Speeds Move To Buy Surplus Food for Needy

President Orders Purchasing of Excess To Feed Jobless and Aid Glutted Markets.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—President Roosevelt today speeded his program for federal purchase of surplus foodstuffs and staples for the needy with orders to get it under way within 30 days.

He conferred with Secretary Wallace and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, who arranged for appointment of a special committee to carry into effect the dual plan to take surpluses off the glutted markets and to feed the unemployed.

Douglas arranged for the necessary funds which are roughly estimated to be about $75,000,000. Secretary Wallace named Chester Davis and L. H. Bean, of his department, to cooperate with a representative from the federal emergency relief agency in carrying out the Roosevelt proposal to purchase surplus beef, dairy and poultry products, cotton and cottonseed.

Wallace also took up with the President the problem of long time program for reduction and control of corn and hogs. He is considering the possibility of including surplus corn purchases in the new relief plan, but he is more interested in providing for a permanent price-fixing plan for corn and hogs.

"Through his action much of the over-supply of important foodstuffs and staples will be placed in the hands of the destitute, who are living on the short shrift of public unemployment relief," said the White House announcement which President Roosevelt discussed with newspapermen.

The plan, as outlined personally by the Chief Executive last night, "will add to and not replace items of relief already provided."

K. P. To Initiate Class at Annual Convention Next Week.

The interior of Harding memorial will be transformed into a lodge room when the page rank is conferred on a class of candidates in every part of Ohio in one of the most outstanding features arranged for the annual state convention of the Knights of Pythias here next week.

It will be the first time that Pythian degree work ever has been conferred at the tomb of a former President, and will be one of the most unique ceremonies in the annals of Pythianism.

Heading a list of Pythian dignitaries to take part in the degree work will be James Dunn, Jr., of Cleveland, supreme chancellor of the order. He will act as chancellor commander when the page rank, the first rank in the order, is conferred.

Others in Degree

Others to take part in the ritualistic work include the memorial will be Edgar W. Ellis of Columbus, secretary of the supreme tribunal, who will act as vice chancellor; William F. Bruce of Mt. Gilead, one of five supreme representatives from Ohio, who will act as prelate; J. K. Dushman of Youngstown, to be installed as grand officer guard at the convention Wednesday, will act as master at arms; Judge A. H. Kunkle of Springfield, supreme representative to act as inner guard; N. E. Kidd of Marietta, supreme representative, to act as outer guard. All of the supreme representatives are past grand chancellors.

The open side of the memorial will be screened from the public while the page rank is being conferred, beginning at 1 p. m.

At 2:45, a Canby lodge degree team from Marion will exemplify the lesson of friendship, the basic theme of the first rank of the order, on the steps of the memorial. This and an address by F. G. Sparks of Mt. Vernon, grand chancellor, will be open to the public.

Musical will be furnished by the boys' band from the Pythian Children's home at Springfield for both the secret and public ceremonies.

O'Dowd Is Chairman

Henry H. O'Dowd, chairman of the Harding Memorial class of candidates, was given a special designation by Grand Chancellor Sparks to have the page rank conferred inside the memorial.

Each candidate will receive a certificate of the rank of page as a member of the Harding Memorial class, Mr. O'Dowd said.

Among the candidates will be five Marion men, and seven others from the Pythian home at Springfield, the latter group having been named at the Pythian Children's home.

Other candidates from every quarter of the state are expected to increase the class to 80.

Candidates will be required to register at Hotel Harding by 1:30 p. m. Tuesday.

In announcing plans for the special initiatory service in the memorial, Chairman O'Dowd today said President Harding was one of two Presidents who were members of the order. President Harding joined Canby Lodge No. 51 here in 1907. The other President member of the order was President McKinley, who while governor joined Champion Lodge No. 541 at Columbus.

SMALLWOOD REPORTS UNUSUAL COLLECTION

Total of $492,103.52 One of Highest Figures in Recent Years.

Final figures on the June tax collection, ended Saturday, show a total collection of $492,103.52, one of the best collections in recent years, County Treasurer R. G. Smallwood reported today. The total levied for the June period was $385,900.

Although these figures would make it appear that 88.54 per cent of the total levied was collected, officials explained that a part of the total was received on delinquent taxes of preceding years.

The total due in the June collection was one of the smallest amounts in a decade, the county board of control having deducted 30 per cent from all tax bills for the period to effect a 15 per cent reduction of 1922 realty taxes, officials said.

TWO FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME

Three Escape Injury in Plunge from First Floor into Basement.

WIRING DEFECT BLAMED

Company Will Continue in Temporary Quarters Until Repairs are Made.

Two firemen were overcome, three escaped injury in a 12-foot fall and damage estimated at $40,000 was caused today this morning by fire which started in the basement of the H. Schaffner Co. furniture store at Main and Church streets.

The flames were confined to the basement but the stock on the four floors of the brick structure was damaged by smoke and heat.

Two alarms were sent in for the fire, one calling Companies No. 1 and 2 and a second calling Company No. 3. All firemen off duty were summoned, with a total of 27 firemen fighting the blaze. Four firemen on scissor ladders were the only ones not called.

Two Overcome

The firemen who were overcome by the heavy smoke and gas fumes are James T. Fisher of Company No. 1 and J. R. Yazel, department mechanic. Fisher, the more seriously affected, also suffered a heart attack from the fumes while Yazel was quickly brought to consciousness.

Fisher was carried to the street and given treatment, and then taken to an apartment building just north of the Schaffner building where he was placed under a

YOUTH SPRINTS TO WARN OF FIRE

Frederick Haberman III, 23, of 478 South Main street, copied methods of couriers in days of old in notifying police about the fire in the H. Schaffner furniture store early this morning.

While driving by the building, Haberman noticed smoke coming from the fourth floor. He drove toward police headquarters to ask officers to investigate.

At the Harding High school on West Church street, his car ran out of gasoline and he was forced to run the rest of the way to the police station. Capt. E. C. Macken investigated and turned in the alarm.

dict's care. Later he was taken to his home. He returned to duty again this morning.

Yazel and two other firemen, George Haines of Company No. 2 and O. C. Stafford, captain at Company No. 2, escaped injuries, except for shock when they fell through a hole in the first floor into the basement, a drop of 12 feet. The hole was hidden by the dense smoke.

Five lines of hose were played on the fire, two brought in from the front of the store and three in from the rear and side entrances. Heat was so intense the firemen at first could get into the building from the front for a distance of only 10 feet.

Origin Uncertain

Origin of the blaze had not been determined at noon today although it was believed by store officials that an electric wiring defect might be responsible. It is believed to have started in an air space between the steel ceiling of the basement and the wood floor of the first floor. It could have smoldered for a considerable time without detection, store officials said.

A surmise that wiring flaws caused the blaze was prompted when officials said an electric clock in the store office had stopped at 12:10 a. m. This was thought by some to have been caused by an electrical short circuit.

Discovered about 1:45 a. m. the blaze was not brought under full control until nearly 4 a. m. and firemen and police were on duty at the scene until 4:30 a. m. A large crowd was attracted by the clouds of smoke pouring from every window and crevice of the four-story structure.

Fred Haberman III, 23, of 478 South Main street, discovered the fire as he was driving by the building. He went to the police station and returned with Night Captain E. C. Macken who turned in an alarm from the box at Main and Church streets. Haberman reached the station at 1:45 a. m. and three minutes later Capt. Macken turned in the alarm.

Estimates Damage

Wilfred Schaffner, secretary and treasurer of the furniture company, this morning estimated the damage and loss in stock at about $35,000. Building damage at about $5,000. Both the stock and the building are insured, he said. Total stock in the store had a retail value of $75,000, Mr. Schaffner said. Stock in the basement, he asserted, is almost a total loss, that on the first floor damaged about 50 per cent and on the upper Governor White was charged by Republicans also with responsibility for defeat of school legislation. Senator Lloyd said he had been informed that the governor had sent word to house leaders that the public school administration bill should be killed.

The legislature was called into special session by Governor White Aug. 16.

The tired, disgusted and rebellious lawmakers, stalemated on the subject of school financing, face a more difficult task next winter when they again are to be called into special session to revamp tax laws, provide school funds and enact a banking control and probably liquor control legislation.

Then the fire works began. In earnest, first with Representative Gus Kasch, Democrat of Summit county, attempting to bring the house to order.

Kasch was able to obtain little order, however, and gave up. Representative Hugh McNamee, Democrat of Cuyahoga county, then stepped into the breach and succeeded in bringing a semblance of order.

Representative Charles A. Jones, Republican of Jackson county, minority floor leader then gave vent to his feelings.

Bitter against leaders of the majority side for permitting the reconsideration and killing of the school bill which would have appropriated $3,000,000 for the week schools, Jones delivered a tirade against the Democratic party.

Charges of utility lobby influence in defeating the school program were handled about by several senators in debate, as advocates of adequate school financing demanded the legislature remain in session until such had been accomplished.

loss of about 25 per cent from heat and smoke.

Mr. Schaffner and the company's retail business will be carried on, starting today from a warehouse store in the Miller Market on South Main street while salvage and repair work is under way. The store, however, will be open for account payment and similar transactions, he said.

As soon as the first floor damage is repaired, Mr. Schaffner said, the store will be reopened and the stock sold out, preparatory to repairing and redecorating the interior.

High praise for the work of the fire department was voiced by Mr. Schaffner, who expressed a belief the damage might easily have been much greater had it not been for the firemen's work under the direction of Chief T. J. McFarland.

An early belief that the fire was on the third floor caused firemen to use the aerial ladders and climb to the third floor windows, which were later broken in to release the smoke and gas. A number of other windows in the building were cracked by the heat.

The hour when the fire started could not be determined. A merchant policeman checked the building about 10:30 p. m. and a city patrolman checked it again about 1 a. m. Neither man detected signs of smoke or fire.

It evidently had been under way for some time before its discovery, since the building was choked with smoke when the fire apparatus arrived.

The building is owned by four persons, Mrs. Rose Shoemaker of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Clara Diebold of the Cowan apartments, Mrs. C. M. Howser of Lafayette street and Mrs. James C. Woods of Lafayette street.

Officers of the new club are Charles Whysall, president, Charles Moore, vice president, Jack Hoagland, treasurer, and Harold Reece, secretary. The club will meet twice a month, with the next meeting scheduled for Oct. 4 at 8 p. m. at the armory.

All persons interested in radio work are welcome to attend meetings of the club. Its members said. Problems arising from time to time will be discussed and ways sought to solve them. New ideas also will be introduced.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Nose Bleed May Be a Warning.

HARDLY A DAY passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information about nose bleed and how to prevent and control it. Nasal hemorrhage, nose bleed, is a common occurrence in the daily life of many. No doubt you have been a victim of this experience at some time or other. It is probable you stopped the bleeding by resorting to some old-fashioned remedy.

Persistent and repeated nose bleeds are uncomfortable, alarming and in extreme cases may be dangerous. Often too little attention is paid to this disturbance. Though the bleeding is successfully stopped, no attempt is made to determine the underlying cause. If possible this should be found and removed. This is important because the nose bleed may be a warning of some defect that should be remedied.

Nose bleeds are especially common among children. As a rule, it is not of a serious nature and can usually be traced to an injury or some inflammation or ulceration within the nose. The child irritates the inflamed area by rubbing the Sudden changes in temperature, high altitude, strenuous play and severe exertion may lead to nose bleed. Bleeding from these causes is easy to cure and need not cause alarm. When the nose bleed is the result of some nasal deformity cure can only occur when that is corrected.

The most common cause of this type of nasal hemorrhage is a crooked and deviated nasal septum, the partition between the two openings of the nose. This leads to difficult breathing and inflammation and ulceration of the nasal passage. In turn this may cause lowered resistance to colds and susceptibility to respiratory diseases. It is a physical defect that must never be overlooked. Neglect of this condition serves as a stumbling block to good health and lessens happiness.

High blood pressure, heart disease and other serious ailments are other causes of nose bleed that must not be forgotten. Bear in mind that there are many causes for nose bleed. Some are unimportant, while others are of a serious nature and require expert medical advice.

Repeated nose bleeds warrant a visit to the doctor. He will determine the underlying cause and outline the necessary steps for the correction of the disorder. Through his efforts future attacks are less likely to occur. Early recognition of a physical defect will insure good health if prompt measures for correction are taken.

Football To Slip into Spotlight This Week-End

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Football slips unobtrusively into the sports picture this week-end to the tune of reduced admission prices, curtailed athletic budgets but the same old college enthusiasm.

Not for another two weeks will the competing teams general but through the far west, south-west and south-east will begin warming up for the climatic battles of November.

Setups for the major schools are the rule but there are two notable exceptions, one in the east and the other on the west coast. At Charleston, W. Va., the Washington & Lee Generals of the Southern conference will face an ancient rival, West Virginia Mountaineers, in the only out-of-state game in the section. At Berkeley, Calif., M. J. (Clippers) Smith's Santa Clara outfit will attempt to make it two in a row over the University of California.

CHEER FOR THE MEN

If any man really believes that the world is going to the Amazons, and that some day men will be the weaker sex, dominated and tyrannized over by woman, here are a few consoling thoughts which may help him get his beauty sleep.

It is true that woman has almost forgotten how to rock the cradle and has learned to run the typewriter, the car, the office and to help run the government, but it will be a long, long time before she will try to rule the world. Because, although she may have cut off her hair, tried wearing pants and forced her way into the sacred smoking car, she is still a "frib" at heart, and most of these things are just a "gesture."

Never, until she has ceased to be "frib"-conscious and has forgotten all she ever knew about men, will woman tyrannize over men in little things as he has tyrannized over her.

For instance, no woman will expect a man to find her shoes for her, or hunt for her hat, or to look for the aspirin or the rest driver or her umbrella, or the rest of the morning newspaper. Because she knows that no man ever remembers where he put anything, or ever found anything for which he was looking. So, what's the use?

And no normal, average woman will tramp up conferences or go out to lodge meetings, and leave her husband all alone, four or five evenings a week. Because she is perfectly aware that when she returns he won't be watching the clock or crying into his pillow or putting the water-waves in his hair.

No woman will raise the roof or go into the silence and act sore, every time her husband wants a new hat or comes home with a lot of frivolous haberdashery. Because, persuading a husband to buy a new hat before the old one has fallen to pieces or dropped off his head, has been the feat of the average woman's life for years. Oh no, if woman will be no "spring bonnet" jokes on the men!

THE VERY IDEA!
DID YOU SWIPE THOSE POSIES FROM SOME HOSPITAL?

Removes Body Odor Instantly
Leaves No Hospital Smell!

To get rid of body odor—especially in hard water—you've got to go deep into the pores and remove the curdled soap.

Ordinary toilet soaps—no matter how badly they smell—won't do the work. They curdle in hard water. And soap-curdle causes body odor; cannot end it. It dams up stale perspiration. That's why deep-pore cleansing is needed in this hard water—to remove the objectionable curds. Kirk's Coco Castile, being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, mixes with the particles of perspiration curds, loosens them, then cleans them out completely—the only effective way to end body odor.

"Just Wonderful in This Hard Water!"
—says Horvath, Iowa, man, who says water is hardest in the state.

Try Kirk's Coco Castile today. It's a soap that's half again larger than average toilet soaps.

Regarding Russia.

There is every indication that the United States is moving toward recognition of the government of Russia. Well informed observers say there will be an American ambassador in Moscow by the end of the year.

It has been this country's policy to withhold recognition only on three grounds—first that the government is not stable and is not maintained by will of the people, second that it does not honor its financial obligations and third that it fosters propaganda pernicious to the interests of the American people.

Russia unquestionably passes the first test. The Soviet regime has been in power for 15 years, its control has been remarkably free from internal disturbance and there has been ample time for the Russian people, in the event they are not behind their government, to have demonstrated their objections. On the contrary every demonstration has been one of support for their leaders.

On the financial side the Soviet's dealing with other countries including America have been honest and businesslike. There is some question concerning payment of obligations incurred under the czar and during the Kerensky regime. Against these Russia advances claims for Russian property and lives lost during the American "invasion" in the latter phases of the World war when our troops held the Archangel sector. These matters, no doubt, can be settled by a commission.

On the third point there have been indications that Russia may have given some sanction and active help to dissemination of communistic propaganda in the United States. If so the offense was a minor one. Russia has troubles enough of her own in working out the new economic order of the world's largest expanse of territory to both very greatly with affairs here. In the beginning, perhaps, it fostered campaigns to test the feeling of this and other countries toward a worldwide communistic revolution but it received little encouragement. Most of the communistic activity on this side has been fostered by home-grown agitators and financed by the collections which proved sufficient to provide them with an easy living.

Russia played a lone hand in the game of nations for a long time and, it must be admitted, played it with great success. It is still a long way from the ideal state but it has made remarkable progress and has amazed the world with the apparent stability of its government. Its form of government is Russia's business, not ours, and there is not much reason left for further refusal to exchange ambassadors and resume direct relations to replace the roundabout makeshift by which the United States has carried on business with the Soviet government for the last decade.

Public Works.

Where many are asking, is the public works program which was one of the administration's first major moves toward national recovery? Ohio, surely, has seen little evidence of activity and most of the other states are making the same observations.

The answer is two-fold. In the first place it takes time to get a program of this nature under way in orderly fashion and in the second place a considerable part of the billions provided for the purpose may never be spent.

Latest reports of the PWA (retained designation of the public works administration to conform with NRA, RFC and other famous initials) show about 60,000 men at work on public projects under the administration program. It is hoped that the number will be trebled within the next two months but even 180,000 men are a mere handful from the millions of the unemployed.

The truth of the matter is that the program was largely psychological. The government expects to put a lot of men to work throughout the country on necessary improvements but it is not going to get itself involved in a construction race merely for the purpose of building payrolls. Too many economists still insist on the theory that "you cannot spend yourself into prosperity." The public works program served, when it was introduced, to get up the public morale to a remarkable degree and to get the activity in public works has been maintained. The program is an important part of the recovery program.

Keep It Respectable.

Most of the states with federal aid have made the beer business respectable and it is up to them to keep it that way.

New York and some of the other states are learning that gangsters and racketeers are menacing not only the business and its workers but their strong arm methods. The time to stop such practices is at the beginning.

Gangland flourished because it was able to build up a war fund with which to buy thugs and gangsters, buy off weak-willed officials and build up a great machine of intimidation. With bootlegging profits depleted by the sale of legal beer and facing complete annihilation when general prohibition became effective, these underworld profits were wiped out and without them the racketeer is harmless.

If the liquor business is kept clean one of America's most vexatious social problems will be well on the way to solution but if gangland is allowed to get a grasp on the new order it will proceed to rebuild its machine and reestablish its power.

Ohio and most of the other states surrounded the sale of legalized beer with certain moral safeguards. Licenses were restricted, in theory, to persons of good moral character but in the rush of distributing permits many of them fell into the hands of men known to be associated with the old evil order.

Recently there has been an attempt to check up on the kind of people who hold licenses and the kind of business they are transacting and a number of licenses have been revoked. It is a good step and a program which should be carried forward vigorously. The honest dealer who runs a decent place and observes the law deserves protection and any tolerance on the part of police or the people toward violation of the regulations is a direct invitation to the racketeer, gangsters and gunman to try to get his dirty hands back on the wheel of government.

Carmen at a Quarter.

One of the interesting developments of late in the field of music and the arts has been the experimentation with grand opera at prices which bring it within the reach of the general public. The response has been enthusiastic enough to create the impression that here may be the opportunity for an extensive program of musical advancement.

The idea is not exactly new. The St. Louis Civic Opera has been an institution for a number of years and several other cities have tried out brief seasons. Cleveland was quite successful during the past summer with operas presented largely by local singers but the real future of the movement depends on the ability to use professionals and to know thoroughly professional performances.

Chicago institutes grand opera with well-known singers and a scale of prices ranging from 25 cents to a dollar with tax additional. This is the kind of production which must be used if the plan is to be established on a sound basis.

Grand opera on the really grand scale found at the Metropolitan in New York or at the Chicago opera is a costly production made possible because wealthy patrons of the arts are willing to underwrite its losses. Here the price scale is high and the patronage necessarily limited.

There are vast numbers of music lovers who cannot pay such a rate and the popular priced opera will find many patrons just as capable of knowing good music as the Metropolitan draws to its famous circle.

The matter of taking grand opera on the road at low prices has not been tried out. The field offers opportunities, since this is a form of stage art which can be used to good advantage in the auditoriums and halls available in nearly every city. The hinterland has its music lovers and its possibilities are suggested to the imagination.

AN EASY EDITOR CREDITOR.
A copy of the Columbus Gazette of June 12, 1823, bears evidence that its editor and proprietor, Philo H. Olmsted, was one of the most patient of creditors. He presented himself at the head of his editorial column as "Editor of the State of Ohio" which probably meant that he had the contract for the state printing, or possibly exercised in part the duties that later rested in the hands of the supervisor of state printing.

Under the title, "A Voice from the Gazette Office," he printed a dunning of a person, enclosing that he had been remarkably patient with some of his subscribers. "Persons having accounts of more than six years standing with the editor of the Columbus Gazette are solicited to make payment. Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

Copyright, 1933, J. B. Lippincott Co.

Tom leaned back against the side of the car and fixed an alarmed gaze upon his sister's face. His eyes were of the same shape and color as Nesta's; he had the same straight nose and short dark brows, the same line of cheek and chin. But the driving force was lacking. He felt the steel teeth of the trap, and struggled ineffectually.

"Look here, Nesta," she mimicked him.

"Look here, Tommy."

"Tant fair to go brooking me and Min into this. You go off on your own and marry a man who never so much as set eyes on me, then all in a hurry you come along and tell me he's a crook and before I know where I am you've dragged me into this Van Berg affair, and there's a man shot and eberards worth no one knows what missing—and why should I be dragged into it when all I ever did was to let him say my motor-bike? Why, all I saw of him was to hand it over to the dark."

"Hold your tongue!" said Nesta sharply. "You won't come to any harm if you do what you're told. Now look here, Tommy, you're not anybody's business but your own."

"I'm your brother, and I'm your brother's keeper," said Nesta.

"You're not my brother," said Nesta.

"You're not my brother," said Nesta.

"You're not my brother," said Nesta.

"If you don't know, I should go on hoping," said the day nurse. Caroline looked at her with shining eyes.

"Yes, I can't let you see, I haven't seen him for a long time, but since I was about 15—and he's been all over the world—he's an engineer, and he came home in July, and I was in Scotland. Then he wrote from London, and I wrote back and said why not come and join us. And he said he would. And he was going to come by coastal steamer because he liked the sea."

"Then you don't know that he was on the Alice Arden?"

"No, but I'm afraid, because he hasn't written for me sure it wasn't him."

The nurse nodded.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, Sept. 23

THE PLANETARY influences bearing rule on the affairs of this day must be interpreted as decidedly conflicting, with much stirring in the way of opportunity, progress and advancement.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year calling for firm self-control, calm judgments and cool actions, lest they defeat fine opportunities for progress through strong urges to initiate, bold strokes, hard labor and the co-operation of powerful friends.

Shun quarrels, impetuosity, speculation and litigation. Also be conservative or thrifty with the funds.

A child born on this day should be energetic, industrious, ambitious and adventurous, but may need early discipline in control of tongue and temper.

Notable nativities: Thomas Mott Osborn, ex-governor, Sing.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Father, Presenting Her With the Quaint Sapphire Ring, Tells Her Its Story.

MY FATHER'S name was almost a paragon as he told me of his conviction that my mother's love for him had been his only shield against the world's cruelty.

He had the attorney forward it to her with a letter explaining in legal terms, in which he stated that I left the money to my mother, and that I had given him instructions to turn it over to my mother's daughter, to whom it belonged.

The attorney made it clear to her that it was a legal obligation on her part to take care of the money and that he could not accept the case.

An Heirloom for Madge

She must have believed what he told her. She was not much versed in legal or business phraseology.

My father's father's voice held my mother's attention for she did not return the ring again. And in the letter she tells me that some time when she was alone, she wore it and that she wished me to give it to you—if I have found you upon the birth of your first daughter. She says that she would have given it to you herself, but that it is an heirloom of my family and that it must come from me.

So, my darling, held out your right hand. It will fit your second finger, I think. It is a diamond ring.

I held out my hand, trying in vain to still its trembling. And as my father tenderly pressed the ring upon my finger, I felt again that sense of another presence, and could have sworn I heard a gentle sigh of satisfaction.

THE DYNAMOMETER TEST

Used at many of America's leading summer camps, Ovaltine has recently been subjected to rigid tests. The picture shows a subject 11 years old, illustrating the dynamometer test, which measures resistance to fatigue. In tests where Ovaltine was given prior to strenuous exercise, children showed 40% greater resistance to fatigue. (Ovaltine builds nerve and body stamina, as well as a strong weight and maintains appetite.)

Tests In New York Schools Show A Remarkable Way to Build Up The Child Who Is Nervous, "Under Par"

HERE'S news of vital importance to mothers of nervous children, and of underweight children, too.

An Eastern university wants a fair road a way, by giving a certain food concentrate, to diminish nervousness as much as 30% in 2 weeks!

In a series of recent tests, 37% of all nervous, under-par children responded almost immediately when this food concentrate was given.

Children who had previously been "high strung" became noticeably more calm. They acquired new energy, new stamina. And their mental alertness increased to a marked degree.

In some cases, nervousness—as measured by the Olson-University of Minnesota checking system—was reduced as much as 18% in a single week!

These remarkable results with nervous children are important to mothers of underweight children, too. For child specialists have long observed that nervousness and underweight go hand in hand. And the food concentrate used with such success on these nervous children has long been known and used for its power to build up weight as much as a pound a week or more—as well as to combat nervousness.

Thus, when a child is given this food concentrate, he benefits two ways. For it breaks up the "vicious circle" which nervousness and underweight always tend to create.

What It Is

The name of this food concentrate is Ovaltine. Discovered in Switzerland, it has already been approved by 20,000 doctors. You simply give it mixed with milk, and children love its taste.

Ovaltine is being given by hundreds of thousands of mothers as the major feature of a health-building program now widely urged by experts in connection with child welfare work. And thousands of letters have been received telling of the remarkable results achieved.

The following letter from Mrs. David Harmer of Gibbstown Rd., Lindenwood, New Jersey, is typical:

"My boy was extremely nervous, was always biting his nails or scratching his head, was very restless and would toss about in his bed and talk all night. It made me nervous to just watch him. Then I decided to try Ovaltine and noticed a difference almost at once. Now he is just fine—just a bit nervous and sleeps soundly at night. I cannot even begin to tell you how wonderful Ovaltine really is."
